Summer Seminars of the International Society of the Rorschach

Porto, Portugal
19th July – 21st July 2013

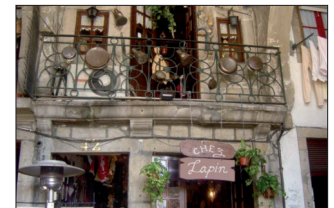

The International Society of the Rorschach is delighted that Porto will be the venue for the IXth Summer Seminars!

We believe that Porto will provide the perfect location for what we think will be an interesting and simulating 3 days of lectures/workshops, case studies and informal discussions with new and experienced Rorschach practitioners and scholars from around the world!

We hope that participants will also have the opportunity to enjoy all that Porto has to offer in the height of the summer season: Sun, sea and beaches; a river boat trip on the Douro; the beautiful botanic gardens; a visit to the Porto wine cellars; museums and the famous World Heritage (UNESCO) site at Ribeira.

Welcoming you to Porto!

Justine McCarthy Woods and Silvia Silva
(Joint Organizers of the 2013 Summer Seminars)

Summer Seminars Overview

The International Society of the Rorschach and Projective Methods has developed a tradition of holding the Summer Seminars every year in between the world congresses. What makes the Summer Seminars special is that the number attending is limited, to a maximum of 40 participants, in addition to the faculty. We consider this important, as it allows all participants an opportunity to actively engage in the discussions and the chance to get to know each other over the course of the 3 days, which is facilitated by participants and the faculty staying in the same hotel and eating lunch together. Participants who attended previous Summer Seminars have commented favourably on the welcoming, friendly and collaborative nature of the Seminars.

We are pleased to welcome members from all over the world, some of whom we are delighted to welcome back year after year. For the 2012 Seminars in San Remo, participants came from the USA, Canada, England, Ireland, Israel, France, Switzerland, Sweden, Italy, Spain, Turkey, Japan and Argentina. We have found English to be the common language and so all the presentations are in English. There will, however, be colleagues who can translate on a more informal basis into other major languages when needed, during the lectures/workshops and to facilitate the dialogues.

The Summer Seminars also serve an important purpose to raise funds for the Hermann Rorschach Archives and Museum (HRAM) in Bern, an initiative developed by John Exner.

The historical context

Our format for the Summer Seminars is not new and actually dates back to the late 40's and early 50's, when they were held in Zurich, Switzerland. The well-regarded Rorschach specialists of the time, Walter Morgenthaler and Margaret Loosli-Usteri were central to the development of the early programs and contributed actively to them. Presentations were also made by other outstanding Rorschach colleagues, such as Schachter and Bohm. Each person usually presented once, or twice at the most, with some form of roundtable discussion and the topics varied considerably.

Since the revival of the Summer Seminars, the ISR has chosen Spiez, Switzerland; Vaxholm, Sweden; Montegrotto, Italy; Lucerne, Switzerland; Prague, Czech Republic; Montreux, Switzerland and San Remo, Italy for their beautiful locations and atmosphere to host our seminars (in 2001, 2003, 2004, 2006, 2007, 2009, 2010 and 2012).

Last review by Participant – San Remo, 2012

Surrounded by the colors and perfumes of San Remo, Agneta Rosenquist (Chairperson of the 2012 SS) took all of us through a unique experience of learning and friendship.

Around the main theme of this session – Psychosis and Rorschach assessment – the seminar days included theoretical sessions, small study groups and final plenary discussions. Subjects of interest were studied in depth, promoting reflection and participation from everybody.

Also during the periods of teamwork, under the guidance of the more experienced professionals, everyone was encouraged to bring forth his own contribution. This promoted an integrated teamwork aimed at the in depth understanding of clinical cases and protocols, which took us well beyond our differences in language and approach.

Odile Husain (from Canada), focused on the complex theme of the nosological position of paranoia ("The silent face of paranoia: a structural approach to a case of paranoid character [Rorschach and TAT]"). She proposed a theoretical model capable of differentiating the different levels of paranoid functioning (from personality structure to delusion), well differentiated from the paranoid functioning. In the afternoon, she provided the analysis of the Rorschach and TAT protocols of a highly significant case.

Fiorella Gazzale (from Italy), in her lecture "Dialoguing with Psychosis through the Rorschach", proposed a touching journey to the very core of psychosis, giving it a voice through the Rorschach language. The compelling case of Mr. G. was addressed through an integrated psychodiagnostic approach... comparing findings from different instruments (Rorschach, WAIS-R and MMPI-2), thus providing an excellent description and understanding of the patient's psychic functioning.

During the final working day we attended the detailed lecture of Jim Kleiger (from the US), "Differential Diagnosis of Disordered Thinking: What does the Rorschach Tells Us?" Once again, the Rorschach revealed its great potential as an investigative tool which can often highlight and describe signs of degradation or "breakage" that remain silent or are hidden during clinical observations or interviews. The case of Nathan engaged all of us, until the very end, in a process of understanding and discussion, in terms of diagnosis, prognosis and treatment.

Odile, Fiorella and Jim, were truly challenging and engaging speakers. And our group leaders were also great: they gradually led us - from the verandah to the pool! - through an exciting journey.

As a reward for our bard work, Agneta, with the support of our colleague Lorena Sospetto, had organized periods of culture, leisure and social gathering: this included the visit to the beautiful Villa Nobel with its rich history museum and the elegant gala dinner served by the pool of Hotel Londra. All this took place in a delightful atmosphere.

I would like to close with special thanks to Agneta, for this year again - with the style and grace that have always characterized her.

Oporto and FADO – History and Culture

The City of Oporto (Porto), built along the hillsides overlooking the mouth of the Douro river, is an outstanding urban landscape with more than 2,000-year history. This city gave Portugal its own name about 200 B.C. when the Romans gave it the name Portus Cale and later, in 868, Vimara Peres named it Portucale). Its continuous growth, linked to the sea, can be seen in the many and varied monuments, from the cathedral with its Romanesque choir, to the neoclassical Stock Exchange and the typically Portuguese Manueline-style Church of Santa Clara.

Porto has a Mediterranean climate. In the winter the temperatures ranges between 5 °C and 14 °C and in the summer between 15 °C and 25 °C. Occasionally, it may reach or even exceed 35 °C in July or August.

The origins of FADO, the 'national song' remains a mystery, but thought possibly to date from the 'Infant ships' of the time of the 'Overseas Discoveries' (C 1500), where these songs capture the themes of love, jealousy, misfortune along with hopes and dreams.

The Rorschach Archives and Museum

Any surplus income realized by these Seminars will be used to support the current operation and the future development of the Hermann Rorschach Archives and Museum (HRAM) in Bern, to the benefit of all members and researchers who use the Rorschach. Our faculty and organizers have therefore agreed not to receive any payment for this event – which is also the tradition with the Summer Seminars.

The Faculty

The Faculty that have been invited for these IXth Summer Seminars and that we are proud to present, are:
– Noriko Nakamura, Japan
– Prof. Anne Andronikof, France
– Dr Kari Carstairs, United Kingdom
Discussant and Curator of the HRAM:
Prof. Anne Andronikof, France
Summer Seminars Chairperson and Co-organizer: Dr Justine McCarthy Woods, United Kingdom

Summer Seminars Co-organizer: Dr Silvia Silva, Portugal

Our faculty will provide material for interesting roundtable discussions and dialogues. As usual, we expect different schools and traditions to be represented among our participants.

This time 'Capturing Change, using the Rorschach and other tests' is our common theme Scheduled half-day lectures (one per day), Friday 19 – Sunday 21 July. There will also be an afternoon program each day, consisting of case studies. They will be discussed among the participants in small groups, followed by roundtable discussions, in which participants will have the opportunity to discuss the case studies together with our faculty.

Program:

|---|--|---|
| Friday | Noriko Nakamura, Japan | “Tuning into Calls for Transformation – exploring what the Rorschach tells us about psychotherapeutic change” |
| Saturday | Prof. Anne Andronikof, France | “Developmental changes in children – as captured by the Rorschach” |
| Sunday | Dr Kari Carstairs, United Kingdom | “The challenge of assessing change within a legal framework: Two case examples using the Rorschach” |
| Chairperson: Dr Justine McCarthy Woods | | Discussant: Anne Andronikof, France |

Daily Program:

Morning lecture 09hrs – 12hrs

workshop and roundtable 14hrs – 18hrs

Social program:

On Saturday night, we are delighted to be able to offer a special price (35€/person) for the Summer Seminars FADO dinner, to be held in 'O Fado' restaurant, situated in the heart of the historical city of Oporto. This dinner, which will include the FADO (Portuguese National Song'), sung by the best FADO interpreters, will provide participants a unique experience to appreciate Portuguese cultural folklore, in comfortable surroundings while enjoying local dishes accompanied by Oporto and regional wines.

Since the program is being set well in advance, slight changes may occur. Nonetheless, we feel confident that this will be an enjoyable and interesting opportunity for sharing the knowledge and expertise of researchers and clinicians from different schools and traditions, as well and meeting up with old friends and new colleagues from around the world.

The Summer Seminars are taking place at the HF Ipanema Park hotel in Porto. All participants are expected to register separately for their stay, directly at www.hfhotels.com/porto/isr

A number of rooms have been reserved for the occasion. Please note that the maximum number of participants at the Seminars is 40, on a first come, first served basis!

Important: The hotel registration has to be done separately.
